The second level of the Japanese Language Proficiency Test (JLPT) is the N4. This page provides information on the textbooks needed to pass this exam. For those looking to take the N4, you can find more resources on our website, including books for other levels. To pass the N4, you should have a basic understanding of Japanese and be able to read and comprehend passages about daily topics written in simple vocabulary and kanji. In addition, you should be able to listen to conversations encountered in daily life and follow their content if spoken slowly. There are two types of books that can help you prepare for the N4: textbooks and workbooks. Textbooks cover all material needed for the exam and often include an audio CD for listening practice. Workbooks provide a tonne of mock exam questions to practice your knowledge with. Shin Kanzen Master N4 is a textbook that covers grammar, reading, listening, kanji, and vocabulary sections for the JLPT N4. It includes in-depth explanations, review of basic grammar points, and mock exam questions with answers. Nihongo So-Matome N4 is another series of textbooks that covers grammar, reading, listening, and kanji sections. It's split into six chapters, each presented as daily lessons, and takes about six weeks to complete. To pass the JLPT N4 exam, you need around 300 new vocabulary words. The study material is divided into six chapters, with one chapter per week covering all areas - Vocabulary, Kanji, Grammar, Reading, and Listening. It includes practice questions to help you prepare. The 'Try! JLPT N4' textbook provides a comprehensive guide to the exam, while the 'JLPT N4 Tettei Drill Workbook' helps you practice with hundreds of questions and mock exams. The 'N4/N5 Goukaku Dekiru Workbook' also covers listening sections with audio CDs for review. For better understanding, it's recommended to listen to JapanesePod101, especially the Absolute Beginner lessons, which will help your ears get accustomed to processing spoken Japanese simultaneously. Additionally, having general Japanese learning resources such as the Genki series or Minna no Nihongo series can be beneficial. Japanese Language Proficiency Tests (JLPT) levels include N4/5 and N1/2, for which detailed information is available on the Official JLPT Website.
